

IDC-CDI

993 Tweets

idc·cdi

⋮

Follow

IDC-CDI

@idc_cdi

Official account of the Centrist Democrat International, the global organization of centre and centre-right parties. President @AndresPastrana_, SecGen @TonoEPP

idc-cdi.com Joined September 2012

856 Following 2,737 Followers

Not followed by anyone you're following

Tweets

Tweets & replies

Media

Likes

IDC-CDI Retweeted

EPP @EPP · 6h

EPP is concerned by the actions & statements of Turkish President Erdogan which show a disregard for international law, inter-religious dialogue & peaceful coexistence of religions. Converting #HagiaSophia into a mosque illustrates Erdogan's dismissal of world heritage & culture.

26

52

IDC-CDI @idc_cdi · Jul 22

La #idccdi y #PKB consideran una irresponsabilidad la decisión de #Erdogan, Presidente de , de convertir #HagiaSophia en mezquita. Reiteramos nuestro compromiso con el diálogo interreligioso, el derecho internacional y el #islamhumanitario.  m.facebook.com/IDCCDIInternat...

Statement by Indonesia's National Awakening Party
in response to remarks by President Recep Tayyip Erdogan of Turkey regarding the conversion of Hagia Sophia into a mosque

JAKARTA, Indonesia. On 21 July 2020, Indonesia's largest Islamic political party issued an appeal to Muslims and people of good will of every faith and nation, to prevent the weaponization of religion for political purposes. Responding to inflammatory remarks by President Erdogan of Turkey, the National Awakening Party (PKB) warned that "the substandard international order is under severe stress, challenged by the emergence of authoritarian, individualist states that do not accept this order, whether in terms of human rights, rule of law, democracy or respect for international borders and the sovereignty of other nations."

The PKB statement comes in response to an Arabic language tweet, in which President Erdogan summoned Muslims "to every corner of the earth" to follow Turkey's lead in reappropriating the Islamic nation, or ummah, which was largely united under the political and military leadership of a caliph from the 7th century CE until the dissolution of the Ottoman Caliphate in 1924.

As PKB Chairman H. Mubandaz Iskandar warned members of the world's largest political network, Centre Democrats International (CDI), in January 2020 at the CDI Eurasia Forum in Yogyakarta, Indonesia: "When religions are deliberately placed upon a collision course, it becomes extremely difficult to prevent universal conflict, for every religion claims to expose a universal mission. When various religious groups live side by side, closely interwoven, religious conflict will inevitably provoke social unrest and violence, which in turn will lead to widespread enmity or even the expulsion of minorities unable to defend themselves, something that we can clearly see happening in various parts of the world today."

President Erdogan has defended the conversion of Hagia Sophia into a mosque by citing Turkey's right, as a sovereign nation state, to do as it pleases with the former Orthodox Christian cathedral. However, Erdogan's statements to the Muslim world before this argument. His remarks, in Arabic, are attacking the substandard international order, inflaming emotions "wherever Muslims dwell throughout the world", and threaten to obliterate a chain of civilizations that afforded humanity its nearly 1300 years, along a fault line stretching from Balkans (in Central Asia to al-Jabal al-Haram). The effects of President Erdogan's words and actions thus extend far beyond Turkey's borders and threaten both Muslim-majority and non-Muslim nations worldwide.

This may be clearly seen by the fact that Erdogan's statements were widely endorsed by the Muslim Brotherhood, Iran, and a wide range of Islamic organisations, worldwide, including organization, with over 90 million followers—endorsed the 2017 Charter of Medina under Declaration on Islamisation of Iran, which states:

23. The Islamic world is in the midst of a rapidly deteriorating crisis, with no apparent sign of respite. Among the most obvious manifestations of this crisis are the brutal conflicts now raging across a huge swath of territory inhabited by Muslims, from Africa and the Middle East to the borders of India, rampant social turbulence throughout the Islamic world, the unbridled spread of religious extremism and terror, and a rising tide of Islamophobia among non-Muslim populations, in direct response to these developments.
24. Most of the political and military actors engaged in these conflicts pursue their competing agendas without regard to the cost in human lives and security. This has led to an immense humanitarian crisis, while heightening the appeal and dramatically accelerating the spread of a de facto Islamist revolutionary movement that threatens the stability and security of the entire world, by summoning Muslims to join a global insurrection against the current world order.

In the midst of these circumstances, it is the height of irresponsibility for Recep Erdogan to further inflame Muslim emotions in pursuit of his domestic political agenda and to serve as a cover for his violation of international norms—by drilling for natural gas within the territorial waters of Cyprus and Greece, supporting al-Qaeda (an affiliate of al-Qaeda) in Syria, and intervening in the Libyan conflict on behalf of the Islamist-dominated interim government—in an effort to enhance Turkish regional power and assert maritime rights in the eastern Mediterranean.

An Indonesia knows from its cultural history—and from recent efforts by China to claim "traditional fishing rights" within Indonesia's territorial waters near the island of Natuna—President Erdogan's actions and statements threaten to return human relations to a barbaric state of nature, in which the law of the jungle prevails. For if international law is no longer the yardstick for governing disputes between nations, any country that is sufficiently powerful may seize lands or waters internationally recognized as belonging to a smaller nation, and defy the weaker power to assert its claim by force.

14 11

IDC-CDI @idc_cdi · Jul 22

The #idccdi #PKB considers irresponsible the decision of #Erdogan President of , to convert #HagiaSophia into a Mosq. We reiterate our commitment to values, the law and #humanitarianislam.  facebook.com/IDCCDIInternat...

Statement by Indonesia's National Awakening Party
in response to remarks by President Recep Tayyip Erdogan of Turkey regarding the conversion of Hagia Sophia into a mosque

JAKARTA, Indonesia. On 21 July 2020, Indonesia's largest Islamic political party issued an appeal to Muslims and people of good will of every faith and nation, to prevent the weaponization of religion for political purposes. Responding to inflammatory remarks by President Erdogan of Turkey, the National Awakening Party (PKB) warned that "the substandard international order is under severe stress, challenged by the emergence of authoritarian, individualist states that do not accept this order, whether in terms of human rights, rule of law, democracy or respect for international borders and the sovereignty of other nations."

The PKB statement comes in response to an Arabic language tweet, in which President Erdogan summoned Muslims "to every corner of the earth" to follow Turkey's lead in reappropriating the Islamic nation, or ummah, which was largely united under the political and military leadership of a caliph from the 7th century CE until the dissolution of the Ottoman Caliphate in 1924.

As PKB Chairman H. Mubandaz Iskandar warned members of the world's largest political network, Centre Democrats International (CDI), in January 2020 at the CDI Eurasia Forum in Yogyakarta, Indonesia: "When religions are deliberately placed upon a collision course, it becomes extremely difficult to prevent universal conflict, for every religion claims to expose a universal mission. When various religious groups live side by side, closely interwoven, religious conflict will inevitably provoke social unrest and violence, which in turn will lead to widespread enmity or even the expulsion of minorities unable to defend themselves, something that we can clearly see happening in various parts of the world today."

President Erdogan has defended the conversion of Hagia Sophia into a mosque by citing Turkey's right, as a sovereign nation state, to do as it pleases with the former Orthodox Christian cathedral. However, Erdogan's statements to the Muslim world before this argument. His remarks, in Arabic, are attacking the substandard international order, inflaming emotions "wherever Muslims dwell throughout the world", and threaten to obliterate a chain of civilizations that afforded humanity its nearly 1300 years, along a fault line stretching from Balkans (in Central Asia to al-Jabal al-Haram). The effects of President Erdogan's words and actions thus extend far beyond Turkey's borders and threaten both Muslim-majority and non-Muslim nations worldwide.

This may be clearly seen by the fact that Erdogan's statements were widely endorsed by the Muslim Brotherhood, Iran, and a wide range of Islamic organisations, worldwide, including organization, with over 90 million followers—endorsed the 2017 Charter of Medina under Declaration on Islamisation of Iran, which states:

23. The Islamic world is in the midst of a rapidly deteriorating crisis, with no apparent sign of respite. Among the most obvious manifestations of this crisis are the brutal conflicts now raging across a huge swath of territory inhabited by Muslims, from Africa and the Middle East to the borders of India, rampant social turbulence throughout the Islamic world, the unbridled spread of religious extremism and terror, and a rising tide of Islamophobia among non-Muslim populations, in direct response to these developments.
24. Most of the political and military actors engaged in these conflicts pursue their competing agendas without regard to the cost in human lives and security. This has led to an immense humanitarian crisis, while heightening the appeal and dramatically accelerating the spread of a de facto Islamist revolutionary movement that threatens the stability and security of the entire world, by summoning Muslims to join a global insurrection against the current world order.

In the midst of these circumstances, it is the height of irresponsibility for Recep Erdogan to further inflame Muslim emotions in pursuit of his domestic political agenda and to serve as a cover for his violation of international norms—by drilling for natural gas within the territorial waters of Cyprus and Greece, supporting al-Qaeda (an affiliate of al-Qaeda) in Syria, and intervening in the Libyan conflict on behalf of the Islamist-dominated interim government—in an effort to enhance Turkish regional power and assert maritime rights in the eastern Mediterranean.

An Indonesia knows from its cultural history—and from recent efforts by China to claim "traditional fishing rights" within Indonesia's territorial waters near the island of Natuna—President Erdogan's actions and statements threaten to return human relations to a barbaric state of nature, in which the law of the jungle prevails. For if international law is no longer the yardstick for governing disputes between nations, any country that is sufficiently powerful may seize lands or waters internationally recognized as belonging to a smaller nation, and defy the weaker power to assert its claim by force.

Andrés Pastrana A and 4 others 5 9

https://twitter.com/idc_cdi